MEEKIN'S CURVES POUNDED

ROSTONS DEFEAT THE NEW YORKS AGAIN BY GREAT BATTING.

This Victory Puts the Champtons Five Peints Behind the Baltimores, Who Lese to Washington-The Brooklyns Wis o Great Game From Philadelphia but the Gerelands Win Twice and Take Fourth Place-Chicago and Cincinnati Also Win.

The champion Bostons demonstrated again esterday that they are not afraid of any pitcher living, not even our hitherto invincible Meckin, The latter faced them and was simply slaughtered, the beancaters smashing the ball all over the The New Yorks on the other hand were completely puzzled by Kid Nichols, Boston's victory places Nash's men within five points of the lively Baltimores, who, strange to relate, were laid low by the tall-end Washingtons. The Brooklyns defeated the Philadelphias by a fine rally at the but when hits meant runs, but the Cievelands stole a march on Fonts's men by winning two games from the Louisvilles and clutching fourth place, which they hold by four points, being also thirty-four points behind the w York team. Cincinnati easily defeated Pittsburgh again, and Chicago won from St Louis by heavy batting. The results:

ROSTON, July 21.—An hour before the ball game to-day a terrific thunder storm struck the city and rain fell in torrents for almost an hour. The diamond was flooded and the rain no doubt kept the old Saturday crowd from showing up. Notwithstanding this drawback 3,900 spectators gathered to see the sport. Before time was called the sun came out in all the torridness of the forenoon and the diamond was soon as dry as a basing floor.

gathered to see the sport. Fefore time was called the sun came out in all the torridness of the forenoon and the diamond was soon as dry as a parlor floor.

It was another day of hard batting and somational fielding. Ward's catch in the sixth being a feature. Nichols was in for the home team and Meekin for the visitors, and the Bostona gave the visiting pitcher a little more severe medicine than they dead out to Rusie yosterday. They carned eleven runs off the young man, while on Friday the record off flusie was ten. Tenney's throwing and Bannon's fielding for the Bostons were the other features.

Capt. Ward, who started for the beach this evening to spend Sunday, said the work of the Bostons for the past two days was simply invincible. But he doesn't think it will last. The run getting started in the fourth inning, when Duffy, getting his eye on a straight, swift one, drove it far over the left field fence for a home run. With nothing to their credit the visitors began the fifth, and by a couple of bad breaks on the part of the champions they succeeded in getting one run. Van Haltren's liner went at Lowe smoking hot, and he allowed it to get away from him. Then up came Tiernan, who drove a bounder in Nash's direction. The Boston captain overran it, and the runner was safe. Farrell tried haed to sacrifice, but struck out. Meekin fouled out to Tenney. It looked like a shut out, but Fuller spoiled all anticipations in this direction by smashing out a single to right and scoring one man. The half ended by Burke flying out to Bannon.

Boston then came in for their half. Nash smashed out a single, and was followed at bat by Tenney, who flied out to Tiernan. Nichols hit to Fuller, forcing Nash at second. Lowe put in a single, sending Nichols to third and stealing second himself. Both men then scored on a timely single by Long. Buffy went to first on balla, and was taking a good lead when McCarthy hit for two bases. Of course, Long and Duffy scored, the latter by the prettiest kind of sprinting. In the sixth inning th tional running catch of a fly sent to short right field.

The New Yorks pulled up a bit in the seventh. Therman and Farreli by good judgment reached first on balls. Meekin struck out, and Tenney in an attempt to catch Tiernan off second threw wild to that base. There was no Boston man in a backing up position and the ball went to far enter field. Fuller hit safe and two runs for the visitors resulted. Burke then made a single, and the next move was a base for both men on a passed ball by Tenney. But Davis popped up a high one for Nash and Wilson described a rainbow curve with the other end in Duffy's hands. Duffy made his third successive hit of the game in this inning, but he failed to score. McCarthy filed out to short and Tucker came up. He put in a single only to be doubled up a moment jater with Bannon. Tucker came up. He put in a single only to be doubled up a moment later with Bannon.
Ward opened the eighth with a safe hit, but his hopes were a bit dampened by Van Haltren going out on a fly to Bannon. The ball went to deep right centre and was taken by the fielder at full speed. Thernan flied out to Nash, and then the same player stopped a screamer from Farrell's tat that staggered him. He lined it over to Tucker just in time to stop the great Marlboro catcher from landing in safety.

The home team gave Meekin palpitation of the heart in the eighth. Nash drew a base on balls. Tenney got in a single. Nichola flied to centre. Lowellned one for two bases, and Long followed suit. Duffy got in his fourth hit, and McCarthy smashed out a double to right. McCarthy smashed out a double to right.

Tom Burns saved the day for Brooklyn in pesterday afternoon; contest with Philadelphia at Eastern Park. It was the stout, hard-working right fielder who, in that lucky seventh inning, made the splendid his to centre field that brought in two runs, one of which tied the score and the other brought victory to the Brooklyas' bench. The Brooklyas tried very hard to win the game, although in the sixth inning it looked as though they were trying to give the game away, they made so many and such inexcusable errors, liewever, they railled at the bat later and made up for their carelessness.

Two new and youthful pitchers made their debut at Eastern Park. Harper of the Philadelphia team did well until the sixth inning, when the Brooklyns began to catch on to his curves. Weyhing took his place in the seventh list before Burns's hit. Underwood made his low in a Brooklyn uniform. He was warmly received and pitched nice ball in spite of poor support. He is speedy and keeps a level bead on all when hits are made. Earle oeached him.

Capt. Boyle shifted his men around in the batting order. Cross batting second to Hamilton made maltiman batted fifth. Hamilton made matters look had for Underwood at the start by banging a single to left. Hamilton stole second internation. Del "got to second as Earle was low in getting the ball down; but the runner went past the base and was put out from Corcoran to Shindle. Thompson is not to Tredway. Capt. Frout's inability to bat kept the Brooklyns from acording in their half of the initial inning. Balf yot a base on balls. Corcoran hit the ball down half redway on the bases Fouts struck out, and then tried to cover up the fault by quarrelling with the unpure.

The Philadelphias scored again in the second fining. With two out, Sullivan made a scratch lit and stole second. He second on Hackley's lice hit. Both leases scored in the third. The Brooklyns suffered somewhat from an attack of rattles in the sixth inning. With one is the hold Hallman on first, and the Brooklyns at hold to be seen the second to see the Boyle's single scored Hallman. Next salt was the second. Harkely's hit can one holds. Harper was out, second to fast one holds.

Corcoran's single. Both runs were seared before a man was out.

The Philadelphias were three runs ahead when Shoch began the seventh for Brooklyn with a hase on halls. Earle singled. Underwood filed out to left. Daly went to first on halls. Corcoran singled, acoring Shoch and Earle. Tredway filed out to right, and Daly went from second to third. Corcoran stole second, Just before Tredway batted Manager Irwin substituted Weyhing for Harper. Now Burns came to the bat and knocked the ball to centre. It was only a single, but as Daly and Corcoran scored on it, ft won the game. The score:

THE DILEMMA STILL CHAMPION Edmund Fish's Fin Keel Yacht Eastly Defeats Her Opponents,

SHELTER ISLAND, July 21.—The second special regatta of the Shelter Island Yacht Club was sailed this afternoon over a course in Deering Harbor and Gardiner's Bay. The wind was fairly steady, a trifle too slack at times, but aside from that the afternoon was ideal for sailing, and every yacht and craft in the harbor not in the race was out to see the contest. About twenty boats were entered, of which eighteen finished. The feature of the race was the test of the new fin keels which were added to the club this year for the purpose of defeating Edmund Fish's racer Dilemma, champion of her class for the last three seasons. The Wild Cat, Mr. Ohnstead's new fin keet, did not finish. She broke her rigging on the second round and dropped out. The other two new boats, the Consternation, owned by John W. Stearns, and Commodore Lynch's Lynx were not in it with the Dilemma, which won easily. The Lynx was second. The Dilemma was designed by Herreshoff, and is the first fin keel ever sailed in these waters.

The Tigress was closely followed by the Eldolon at the finish, but the race was not quite ion at the finish, but the race was not quite matisfactory to the spectators, as the Eidolon was grounded on the second round and delayed at least three minutes before her crew could get her off. The Figuon, Mr. Westlake's boat, was not allowed to said, as there was no boat in the class to compete with her. The smaller boats of the club were well matched, and they kept quite close together throughout with the exception of the Æolus owned by W. H. Beckwith, which distanced her rivals. The Naroua finished first in her class of sloops, and the Nip and Tuck won in the third-class cats. The time of the boats at the finish is as follows: SLOOPS-CLASS IL preezes and ability in brisk winds gave victory to the American sloop Vigilant in the fifty-mile race to-day, three times over the kite-shaped arse of the Royal St. George's Yacht Club. The Briton was beaten 3 minutes and 39 seconds, actual time. With an allowance of 1 minute and 10 seconds, the Reliannia's defeat will be 2 minutes and 29 seconds. The contest was long drawn out, the average speed of the duci-ists being about 0.6 nautical miles per hour. The Vigilant covered the course in 7 hours 50 sinutes and 3 seconds, and the Britannia in 7 hours 53 minutes and 42 seconds. There were moments when there was some real racing, but, taken as a whole, the contest was inconclusive The Vigilant led at every mark save one, and was, in a brisk run to the Kish lightship on the third round, nearly 9 minutes ahead.

THE COURSE OF VESTERDAY'S BACK. There was a depressing influence for Amerian yachtsmen in the weather they needed as they merged from companionways this mornng and cast a weather eye skyward. They have been almost convinced by the successes of the Britannia in light winds that she is a better yacht when white caps are invisible, and they were prepared for a hopeless stern chase. The wind was light from the northwest, and from the overcast sky there came occasional bursts of rain. The course was the same as in yesterday's fluky contest. From a mark boat at the mouth of the harbor, opposite the breakwater, the first leg extends to the northeast to Rosebeg, about three and a haif miles; the second leg runs seaward five miles, about east southeast, to the Kish lightship; thence southwest to the Muglins; the final leg is from the Muglins the final leg is from the Muglins home, about two and a haif miles. The prize is valued at $300.

They were timed just as they turned the home mark. Before doing so they had a little leg of several hundred yards to make, running northwest into the very eyes of the wind. They lufted up at the stakeboat and turned it in this manner:

Both headed westward, with the wind over the starboard bow. They stood on this course for about fifteen minutes, each striving for the weather position. By thus heading into the bay they were enabled to make a semewhat broader reach to Rosebeg. The manceuvre brought the wind more on the port beam, Broad reaching in light weather, the Britannia's skipper evidently thought, was more favorable to his pacht than work with sheets almost flattened. The Vigilant surprised the talent by slipping shead and rounding Rosebeg I minute and 4 seconds before the Britannia. Time: Vigilant

The wind was rising a bit, and blowing over the starboard quarter in the five-mile run for the Kishlightship. The Vigilantled by I minute and 40 seconds at that point, having put thirty-six seconds to her credit in the run from Rose-beg, and having gathed since the start I minute and 57 seconds. Time at Kish:

Vigilant. Just after they rounded the lightship the wind shifted to southerest, making a dead bear across the five-and-a-half-mile stretch to the Muglins. The battle was now made in short boards and the quickness of the Britannia in stays enabled her to reduce the Vigilant's lead to 1 minute and 28 seconds when they passed the Muglins, as follows:

The wind seemed to have a southerly tendency after the yadhts cleared the Muglins, as they set spinnakers to port and large jibs to catch all the wind that might spil from or clude the immense side sails. The wind shifted again and spinnakers were taken in. They were again set, and once more hauled in when the wind

The wind freshened, and the Britannia, being astern, felt its influence first and slightly closed the wide gap between herself and her rival. It was a reach to the Rosebeg, this ting with the wind on the starboard bow. The Virilant lost influence and 15 seconds, having now a lead of 3 minutes and 5 seconds. Time at Rosebeg:

The wind had shifted to south when the racers turned the Rosebeg buoy. The large lib topsails used on the reach were hauled down and smaller ones substituted. The Britannia picked up 15 seconds and was now 2 minutes and 50 seconds astern at the Kish lightship. Time:

The yachts were not timed at the Muglins. The breeze died out and they drifted southward on the ebbing tide with masts perpendicular and sails idly flapping. The Britannia had the weather position when the wind came up out of the southwest. She got to the Muglins mark almost at the same time as the Vigilant, and when they rounded the Briton was perhaps a bowsprit in the lead. The wind was combing up the white caps now, and the Vigilant got a true Yankee gait on her. In the broad two-and-a-half-mile reach the Vigilant overhauled the cutter, and rounded the home mark, dishing the second round 1 minuts and 17 seconds ahead. It was a spinnaker breeze to Rusebeg. Booms were dropped to port and the big sails blossomed, towing the racers north-northeast with renewed speed. The Vigilant gained twenty-one more seconds in this three-and-a-half-mile run, and was 1 minute and 38 seconds ahead at the Rosebeg buoy. Time:

It was almost a dead heat on the leg from Rish to the Muglins. The yachts shood away on the port tack. The light breeze increased slightly. Loshow, July 21—The Glasgow Heruld says to-day: "The Britannia has established her superiority over the Vigilant under almost every condition of weather. The British hold their own in bandling yachts. The Americans said hard things about the skippers and crews of the Thistie and Valkyrie when they were sailing in New York waters, but their language now will probably be more respectful."

THE PARTERS STILL WINE. the Finished First for the Osborne Cap Yes

The little fleet of 21-footers held another of their regatias on Long Island Sound yesterday when they took part in the Indian Harbor Yacht Club's special race for a $100 cup or a purse of equal value offered by Vice-Commodore Wiliam Osborn of the sloop Crocodile, Yester day's race was the first of a series of three for this particular trophy, and, as almost all of these little racers had been rerigged or had epaired their damages from previous contests, it was thought some good racing would ensue. For some unknown reason the demon of ill luck enems to rowsup these little racers, and while, for a wonder, none of them broke down yesterday, the race, so far as a contest was concerned, was just as unsatisfactory as any of its predscessors. This in a large measure was due to fluky winds, calms, and changeable breezes, which, as one disgusted speciator remarked, reminded him more of the good old Clyde than staid and respectable Long Island Sound. The Herreshoff bonts were as usual one, two three, and again the Vaquero proved herself the superior of the entire fleet and added another victory to her credit. The Houri, however, after rounding the Matinicock mark something like half an hour astern of the Vaquero, pulled up on her sister fin on the run down to Centre Island buoy and took the lead and windward berth on the reach home. She looked for all the world like a winner, when the wind headed her off just by the finish line, and the result was the Vaquero, helped by a favorable slant of wind, slipped across the finish line 1 minute 38 sec-onds shead of the Houri, which had hard work to beat the Celia for second place by the narrow margin of 21 seconds.

In justice to the Vaquero, however, it should be said that she was the first boat to cross the line, and when the boats were apparently holding the same wind she increased her lead at the outermark at Matinicock. While she was in reality only a mile ahead of the Houri and Celia in the light air, she led the Houri 29 minutes 35 seconds and the Celia 54 minutes 55 seconds. neither of the latter boats being able to make any headway against the strong ebb tide. neither of the latter boats being able to make any headway against the strong ebb tide. After they rounded the tail-enders got way the best of the breeze, which carried them right up on the Vaquero, and the result was a close finish. Even at the end the Vaquero would have lost but for the favorable slant of wind. The Houritried her new mainsail yesterday for the first time, and judging by the way it set it should prove an improvement on her old sail.

In addition to the race for 21-footers there was a special race for open catsunder 20 feet on the water line for a handsome silver cup, offered by Commodore John Moller of the Indian Harbor Yacht Club, which was won by E. A. Wheeler's Jewel, cleverly handled by Jim Willis and a crew of Cow Bay oystermen.

There was a great crowd of naphthalaunches filled with pretty girls around the starting line, to say nothing of any number of steam and sailing craft. In addition to the pretty girls there were any number of amateur sailors about, and by far the greater number were congregated on the 21-footers, as a glance at the following list will show: For instance, on the Vaquors were Herman Duryes and Winkrop Rutherfurd; the Houri was handled by E. A. Willard, who helped sail the Vigilant to victory last year, assisted by Count Oswald Sanderson of the Pyxic. This arrangement was due to the fact that the Houris owner, W. Butler Duncan, Jr., was off with the Naval Reserve on the United States cruiser New York. The Maysic, owned by Vice-Commodore William Osborne, the donor of the cup, was sailed by E. Burton Hart, Jr., whose elever work on the open cat Tattler won her many a race. Mr. Hart was ably assisted in his efforts by William Osborne, Jr., and Capt. Jerry Crocker of Cow Bay, The Whitehouse & Chesborough centreboard mahogany boat Heodoo was sailed by J. Howard Madans, Jr., while the new Herreshoff mahogany fin Celia was handled by her owner, C. A. Gould. On the open cats there was a great array of talent, particularly on Louis R. Alberger's Morula, on which were packed s journey at 1 P. M. Their starting times and order of crossing were; Chippie, 1:01:23; Kissent, 1:01:44; Jewel, 1:03:57; Merula, 1:04:59; Zelda, 1:05:00; Harry C. Miner, 1:05:00; Janet S., 1:05:00, the last three boats being handicapped.

The open cats only went to Matinnleock and back, a distance of 12 nautical miles. Commodore Moller's sloop Nirvana was used as a judges' boat and all yachtscrossed close handed on the starboard tack.

It was alcad beat to windward to the first mark at Matinicock, but in the light air hardly any of the little racers made much progress. The Vaquere, Houri, and Maysic all stood over toward the Long Island shore, while the Hoodoo and 'clia kept further out. Toward the middle of the Sound they all caught a little breeze, the Vaquere, as usual, getting it, first and the result was she rounded the outer mark at 2:47:20, away ahead of the read of the fiest, the others all being practically becalmed either along shore or out toward the middle of the Sound. Owing to the lack of wind and the strong ebb tide, which kept them setting toward the east, it took them from thirty minutes to an hour to get around, the leaders being timed as follows: Houri, 3:10:36; Cella, 3:8:113; Jewel, 4:07:13; Meruia, 4:13:50. After the above and a long way assiern came the Hoodoo, Maysie, and the rest of the cats. Helped by the cib tide and a light southerly air, which just kept their liny symnakers from dipping in the water, the little face of racers, with booms to port and spinnakers to starboard, drifted slowly toward Centre Island, the second turning mark. At about 4 o'clock a nasty-looking squall seemed to be coming in from the northeast; but for a long time after the cats which were under the Connecticut shore seemed to feel it the 21-footers were syrting the same old coutherly breeze over on the Long island side. The Houri and Cella seemed to carry the breeze along with them, and by the time Centre island buoy was rounded they were only a little way actern. On the reach in the Houri took the lead after a rather exciting little luffing march, and for a lime looked like a winner, when the wind haused and the Yaque

Tacht. Paovidence, R. I., July 21.—John H. Herres-hoff, when asked to-day in reference to the re-port that George Gould had ordered a new yacht, and that no such order had been received. Being further interrogated as to nego-tiations for such a craft, he declined to make dated Kingstown, July 20, stating that Mr. George Gould had commissioned the Herreshoffs to build a racing yacht to be lighter in every respect than the Vigilant, was cabled back to this place from New York to-day and shown to Mr. Gould by a representative of the United Press.

When Mr. Gould read the statement, together with the details as to the dimensions rig. dec. of the new load, which were told in the despatch with great circumstantiality, he laughed hearti-ly at the "enterprise" of the sender of the tele-tram. After giving full vest to the amuse per ly at the "enterprise" of the sender of the telegram. After giving full vent to the amusement the story afforded him Mr. tiouid authorized the United Prees representative to say that there was absolutely no foundation for the stalement. He had not ordered a new yacht, and, indeed, had no thought of doing so, and he certainly shouldn't think of ordering a boat to be built on the plan gratuitously furnished by the constructor of the despatch which had been shown to him.

The House Committee of the Staten Island Athletic Club have issued an order that hereafter no refresh ments will be said to persons who are not members of the club. Non-members will also be detaired from the club bouse and ground unless they possess a ticket from a member. Sportsman's Goods.
